

Curtis Giovanni Flowers - In a legal saga spanning more than two decades, Curtis Flowers was tried six times for the 1996 murders of four people at Tardy Furniture in Winona, Mississippi. An investigation by APM Reports' In the Dark podcast found that the case was based on flawed and unreliable evidence. The U.S. Supreme Court reversed Flowers' last conviction in June 2019, ruling the district attorney had violated Flowers' constitutional rights by excluding Black people from the jury. After the DA recused himself from the case, the Mississippi Attorney General's Office dropped the charges against Flowers in September 2020, and the state later determined that he was entitled to compensation for his imprisonment.
